Doria Faces Possible Criminal Prosecution On Solons' Charges

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) of the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee ticked off 13 charges against former labor leader Anthony Doria Tuesday. The senator called on the Justice Department for possible criminal prosecution.

McClellan told Doria that a transcript of his two days of testimony also was going to the Internal Revenue Service in case the federal tax collectors "want to pay you a visit too."

Mainly the charges were that Doria, for 23 years the secretary-treasurer of the Allied Industrial Workers and its predecessor, the AFL United Auto Workers, had misused union funds and had worked hand-in-glove with labor racketeer Johnny Dio.

Doria disputed the charges, swearing again he had never spent union money for his personal benefit.

In one of the final episodes of Doria's sessions with the senators, he and they listened to a secret recording of a 1953 telephone conversation between him and Dio.

Doria acknowledged the recording was genuine, although the voice didn't sound like "my usual sonorous voice."

The conversation showed that the two men were discussing the transfer of some AIW union funds controlled by Dio, into the Teamsters Union.

Meany Foiled Plot

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy said that at the time, Vice President James R. Hoffa of the Teamsters was trying to get Dio into a position of power within the union in New York, but that George Meany, then president of the AFL, stepped in and spoiled the deal.

Doria said Tuesday he planned to file a suit for 2½ million dollars against the AFL-CIO and individuals who sought to oust him from his union. Doria left the AIW last March by request of critics who complained of his friendship with Dio.

Raps Labor Leaders

Doria also said Tuesday he would be more inclined to believe gangster Dio than he would such labor leaders as Meany, Walter Reuther, David Dubinsky or Al Hayes.

"I would take Dio's word before that of the four of them put together," he said, "I know it would be lived up to."

Among the documents the committee used in questioning Doria were Doria's Wisconsin state income tax returns covering the 50 months between January 1948 and March 1952. These Wisconsin returns are public records.

Disputes Records

However, the fast-talking Doria disputed the committee's interpretation of these and other records and never for a minute admitted that he had misrepresented his financial standing, or used union money for himself.

War In Oman Virtually Over

MANAMA, Bahrain, (AP)—The British wrote off the Oman war Tuesday as virtually over.

Scarlet banners of the Sultan of Muscat and Oman were raised over two more towns, Tanuf and Bakha. Both capitulated without resistance.

The four-week-old rebellion of Imam Ghalib bin Ali ebbed further with the advance of the Sultan's loyal troops and their British allies.

Sir Bernard Burrows, the British political resident in Bahrain, said: "After Firg was overcome, there was nothing left."

Firg, a fortress town, fell after a brisk skirmish at dawn Sunday. The rebel headquarters city of Nizwa then gave in without a fight. The Imam had fled. He is a Moslem religious leader the Sultan had exiled.

AFL-CIO Council To Act On Charges Against Teamsters

CHICAGO (AP)—AFL-CIO leaders Tuesday determined to complete action on "corrupt influences" charges against the 1½-million-member Teamsters Union before the union's convention next month.

The AFL-CIO Executive Council decided to proceed with final hearings Sept. 5 and 6, whether or not the Teamsters appear.

The Council decided to take no immediate action in the Fifth Amendment case of Maurice Hucheson, president of the 830,000-member Carpenters Union.

The AFL-CIO high command adopted a get-tough policy amid some speculation that the Teamsters were stalling off the hearings until after their Sept. 30 convention.

Police At Dead End In Search For Missing Boy

BRAZIL, Ind. (AP)—The mother of missing 7-year-old Billy Martin submitted to a lie detector test Tuesday while more than 300 searchers and two helicopters combed the mine-pocked countryside around this western Indiana coal and clay center.

Police Chief Joseph Russell said the test at state police headquarters in Indianapolis indicated that Billy since he last saw him playing in the yard Saturday afternoon.

State police technicians kept the record for further study but Chief Russell said, "We seem to be at a dead end."

Harry A. Higgins, 53, a part-time guitar player who was rooming at the Martin home, was still held for investigation although the police chief admitted there was little to indicate Higgins had any knowledge of the boy's whereabouts.

Two National Guard helicopters and Civil Air Patrol planes crisscrossed Clay County in the air while hundreds of volunteers beat the earth slowly through woods, overgrown fields and the spoil banks of strip mine pits.

An intensive search was made of the 100-acre farm of Miss Lurene Evans, 69, antique shop owner, three miles south of Brazil.

Higgins, last person known to have seen Billy alive, had worked on the Evans farm last summer and told police he washed his car there Saturday afternoon.

BRESE MAN DIES OF INJURIES FROM ACCIDENT

BELEVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Raymond Hazebrot, 29, a carpenter of Breese, Ill., died Monday night of injuries suffered in a highway accident July 29.

Hazebrot's car was struck by one driven by Constable Charles L. Sackman, who was pursuing a speeder. Three other persons were hurt. The speeder escaped.

ELGIN FIRM GETS CONTRACT FOR MISSILE PARTS

ELGIN, Ill. (AP)—The Elgin National Watch Co. said Tuesday its microelectronics division has been awarded three research and development contracts for guided missile components.

The new contracts total about 1½ million dollars, the firm said. Work on all three programs has been assigned to the division's West Coast research and development laboratories at Burbank, Calif.

George W. Fraker, general manager, said the new contracts may lead eventually to production work at the company's Lincoln, Neb., plant, which already is producing high precision components.

LODZ, Poland. (AP)—A Lodz streetcar strike confronted Poland's Communist government Tuesday night with its gravest situation since Wladyslaw Gomulka took over the party leadership last October. Small sympathy strikes were reported in other cities.

The Lodz strikers demanded a written promise of pay hikes before returning to work.

Communist local authorities, making no commitment, were reported planning to get part of the city's ramshackle cars moving Wednesday under police protection.

More than 1,000 trucks, military and civilian, ran in a shuttle service to get people to work in this city of 700,000. It is Poland's second largest industrial center.

Business boomed for the dilapidated horse cars that still find a living in this country. Poland remains short of automobiles and the streetcars are the city's only regular major transport.

OLD "OLD GLORY" FOR IKE—Scarred by seven bullet holes from the Revolutionary War, this historic flag has been offered to President Eisenhower by its owner, Sidney L. De Love, of Chicago. A collector of American historical objects, De Love, left, served on General Eisenhower's World War II SHAEF staff as a colonel. He says the 13-star flag was probably made by some soldier's wife or sweetheart before a Revolutionary unit marched off to war. The first official flag, adopted later, had the stars in a circle.

Bill Raising Postal Rates Passes House 256-129

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Tuesday passed and sent to the Senate a bill to raise postal rates. Included is a boost to 4 cents for the 3-cent letter rate.

The increases would be effective Oct. 1.

In addition to hiking regular letter rates the bill would boost air mail charges from 6 to 7 cents an ounce and postcards from 2 to 3 cents.

Action on the measure had been sought by the Eisenhower administration to cut the Post Office Department deficit.

Passage of the bill came on a 256-129 roll call vote. Voting for the bill were 85 Democrats and 171 Republicans. Against it were 125 Democrats and 4 Republicans.

Before the final vote the house adopted an amendment to speed up a raise in rates for third class mail — mostly advertising material — from 1 cent to 2½ cents per piece. The amendment, adopted 147-74, makes this effective Oct. 1 instead of in two steps which wouldn't be completed until July 1, 1959.

It also adopted by a 171-147 vote an amendment which its author, Rep. Rhodes (D-Pa.) said would limit to $100,000 a year the "subsidy" given any one publication by low mail rates. (Continued On Page Nine)

Order Three Embassy Officials To Leave Country By Wednesday

DAMASCUS (AP)—Syria ordered the ouster of three American embassy officials Tuesday night after accusing the United States of plotting to overthrow President Shukri Kuwaty.

The three must leave Syria Wednesday. Charges against them and the United States were indignantly rejected by the embassy.

The branding of the three as persona non grata — unwelcome — was announced by a Foreign Office spokesman.

The three were identified as: Lt. Col. Robert W. Malloy, military attache; Howard E. Stone, the embassy's second secretary for political affairs; and vice consul Francis Getton.

Youths In Moscow Ponder U.S. Warning Against China Tour

MOSCOW (AP)—A nervous group of American youths were warned in scathing language by the U. S. State Department Tuesday that their plans for a Communist-sponsored junket to Red China may put them in trouble with the law.

Obviously wavering now on whether to make the three-week tour, members of the delegation spent the evening in puzzled conferences. One of them, Shelby Tucker of Pass Christian, Miss., withdrew from the trip a few hours after the State Department message was received.

The others of the delegation, now numbering 45, will have to make up their minds by Wednesday at 3:25 p.m. That's when the Moscow-Peking express is due to pull out.

The official U. S. view was expressed in a note specifically directed at the delegation by Undersecretary of State Christian Herter.

It contained one of the State Department's strongest recent statements on the controversial question of American travel in Red China.

Herter wrote that all those who accepted the Peiping invitation might be violating the U. S. Trading With the Enemy Act.

"This constitutes a criminal offense under our law," Herter warned.

He linked application of the act with a never-before expressed State Department view that "a quasi state of war" exists between the United States and Red China.

Herter did not expand on this, but a State Department spokesman in Washington noted that the Korean War has not yet officially wound up in a peace settlement.

In addition to suggesting possible criminal prosecution, Herter told the group that their passports would be forfeited if they make the trip.

Thus the tour would mean a serious step for members of the group who, for example, are studying abroad on fellowships. They would have to give up the grants and come home. Tucker, a student at Oxford University in England, obviously considered this in canceling out.

American passport regulations forbid travel to all countries which the United States does not recognize. Red China is one.

The prospective junketers were tendered the invitation by the Communist-sponsored World Youth Festival ended last week.

PAWNEE MAN KILLED NEAR SPRINGFIELD

Air Force Checks Story Of Pilot Missing For 54 Days

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force said Tuesday that it is making a "thorough but routine" investigation of Lt. David Steeves' disappearance for 54 days in California's High Sierras.

The 23-year-old pilot is now temporarily assigned at Bolling Air Force Base near here, while Air Force experts check the story he told after emerging from the wilderness in June. Steeves bailed out of his jet trainer over the mountains when on a routine flight. The Air Force listed him as officially dead, but 54 days later he stumbled out of the rugged mountains.

His wife, Rita Steeves of Fairfield, Conn., first welcomed him back saying that it was the "happiest day in my life." This week, however, Mrs. Steeves said she was considering getting a divorce.

Of this, Steeves said "the decision is hers" and "it shook me pretty hard."

Steeves was given a long vacation after his experience and then ordered to Washington where his physical condition, his story and all of the circumstances surrounding his experience are being checked out.

The Air Force said that it was routine procedure to investigate and study any man involved in an accident and particularly men who undergo unusual experiences.

The purpose of such investigations, an Air Force official said, is to determine whether any lessons might be learned from one man's experiences that could be applied to Air Force training.

Meanwhile, in Philadelphia, a spokesman for the Saturday Evening Post said the magazine has canceled plans to publish a story on Steeves' reported experience. This was done, the spokesman said, because of what the Post considered discrepancies in Steeves' story.

The spokesman said that on July 9 the magazine contracted for a story but terminated the agreement Aug. 6 after three weeks of investigation.

Comet Visible After Sunset Below Big Dipper

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—A big, bright new comet—rivaling and perhaps surpassing in brightness any seen since 1910 or 1911—now has moved into a position where millions of Americans may easily view it, the Harvard College Observatory reported today.

Dr. Donald Menzel, director of the observatory, said it now may be seen, soon after sunset, below the Big Dipper.

It's brightness—second magnitude—makes it almost as easy to see as the brightest star in the sky. And it has a long tail spread over several degrees of the sky.

While it is easily seen with the naked eye, Dr. Menzel suggested that field glasses or a small telescope will make the comet much more vivid.

The comet was discovered on Aug. 2 by Mrkos, a Czech astronomer, and since astronomers believe it has never been seen before in human history, it has been named for him: Comet Mrkos. It is brighter than the Arend-Roland comet seen in April.

STATE'S CORN, BEANS NEED MORE RAIN

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Illinois corn and soybeans are still growing at a good clip, crop experts said Tuesday, but may lag soon without more rain.

State-Federal Agriculture departments said 85 per cent of the corn has tasseled and 35 per cent is in the roasting ear stage.

About three-fourths of the beans are blooming. The best development is in the north. A little over half the bean fields show setting pods.

Twenty-nine per cent of the crop correspondents reported a soil moisture shortage. At the same time last year, 20 per cent so reported.

Plowing for fall sown wheat is nearly half finished.

Insect damage is heavier than usual in the continuing southern Illinois Elberta peach harvest.

Student Exchange Ship Docks With 50 Ill From Flu

NEW YORK (AP)—A student exchange ship, Arosa Sky, docked Tuesday with 50 of its student passengers still ill from a virus that may be Asiatic flu.

More than 200 of its 847 passengers were felled during the transatlantic crossing by a combination of headache, fever, sore throat and weakness. Authorities were seeking to pinpoint the nature of the malady. The symptoms resembled Asiatic flu, which swept many parts of the world and which health officials said now menaces this country.

Most of the ailing passengers had recovered by the time the ship docked here. She sailed from the Netherlands Aug. 5.

There were no fatalities among the passengers. Only 29 were still ill enough to require further medical observation. None was hospitalized.

Of the Arosa Sky's passengers, 647 are teen-age students from 18 countries. They will live with American families in 44 states while attending high schools in this country.

The exchange program is sponsored by the American Field Service.

Editorial Comment

Get Well, Mamie

The nation was surprised to learn that its First Lady—Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower—had undergone an operation in Washington. But all Americans were happy to hear that it was successful and that she is already on the way to recovery.

In her nearly five years in the White House, Mrs. Eisenhower has established a reputation for graciousness, and for wholehearted devotion to the tasks which inevitably devolve upon the President's wife as hostess and keeper of his household.

She has given the White House, by some little miracle of social mastery, a warm atmosphere of normal family living. In so doing she undoubtedly has helped ease the President's own burdens and has added substantially to the symbolic value of the presidency in the eyes of all Americans.

We all hope she will soon be back at her normal pursuits.

Soil And Surplus

The administration's soil bank program, now in its second year, is aimed, of course, at reducing the nation's huge farm surpluses. The somewhat limited record so far indicates that it may not prove too effective in achieving that result.

The bank involves six main commodities—wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco, rice and peanuts. The biggest portion of the bank is an acreage reserve, created by farmers taking land devoted to these crops out of cultivation. The law specifies, too, that land thus set aside cannot be used to grow other crops.

Last year the act was adopted too late for full effect, but about 12.2 million acres (10 per cent) of the total allotted to the six listed crops went into the acreage reserve. Most of this was taken from wheat and corn allotments.

Farmers' payments for participation in this program came to 260 million dollars. They got another 25 million for taking part in the other aspect of the soil bank plan—the conservation reserve.

But despite the acreage withdrawals, wheat and corn in 1956 both registered 7 per cent production increases. Output of the other four crops dropped varying degrees from 15 to 1 per cent. Most experts ascribed the declines, however, to widespread drought rather than to the soil bank.

As of April 30 this year, government price supports on 1956 crops had fallen 17 per cent below the previous year to a figure of 2.8 billion dollars. And commodities in federal inventory or pledged for farmers' loans down to 7.8 billion from 8.6 billion the year before.

But the record suggests that sharply boosted exports of wheat and cotton were more responsible than the soil bank for the whittled surpluses.

In 1957 the amount signed up for the acreage reserve is 21 million acres, against last year's 12.2 million. About three-fifths comes out of the wheat allotment.

It's too early to say how 1957 production will turn out. But first indications for wheat are that output will fall perhaps just 3 per cent below 1956, despite the fact that nearly 13 million out of a 55-million-acre allotment are in the soil bank.

As so often before with other efforts to cut back production, experts are finding that many farmers set aside their poorest acres and step up output to new highs on the remaining. It's a hard game to lick.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (P)—Many young actresses who go to Hollywood become trapped by "the cheesecake curse."

They never graduate above the leg-and-bosom publicity photos put out by their studios to build up public interest. They become caught on a cheesecake treadmill, and go no farther.

Jane Russell, who pioneered in making the three-foot tape measure obsolete, feels now that at long last she has busted that hex forever.

"People used to expect me to come in with three naked men thrown over my shoulder," recalled Miss Russell, who looks like a strapping, tall-stemmed American beauty rose.

This happened because of her first picture, "The Outlaw" (made with Marilyn Monroe) was in high school and Jayne Mansfield was still playing jacks. The camera seemed intent on proving that Miss Russell's heaving chest qualified her more for deep sea pearl diving than acting.

"When I met women at a party," said Jane, "They'd talk to me for a while and then say in real surprise, 'why, my dear, you're a lady!'"

This doesn't happen any more—and for this I'm grateful. There have been so many blasts against cheesecake art that now I'm allowed to be me."

"Me"—as Jane sees herself—is a normal, wholesome young career actress happily married to Robert Waterfield, a former pro football star. And she is the proud mother of three adopted children.

She and Bob head their own film production firm and share a joint enthusiasm for WAIF, an international adoption agency which Miss Russell founded in 1954.

"So far WAIF has found new homes for more than 4,000 children from 18 countries at a cost of about $300 a child," she said.

"Not all have been brought to America, but most have—because the demand is here. We have thousands of people here who want to adopt children."

"We could bring many more children over if Congress would change the immigration laws and we had more funds."

Turning to her professional problems, Jane said she and her husband "read and read till our eyeballs fall out" looking for good scripts.

"The real problem is to find something you like and are proud of—and the public will like too. But when you've got kids to raise and send through college, you do have to think of the market."

"You can spend a lot of money making an artistic picture, then see it wind up like a dead fish on the highway."

Jane has just completed her 17th film. It's about two would-be criminals who kidnap a clamorous movie star, who in turn ends up by falling in love with one of her captors—just a nice, crazy mixed-up kidnaper.

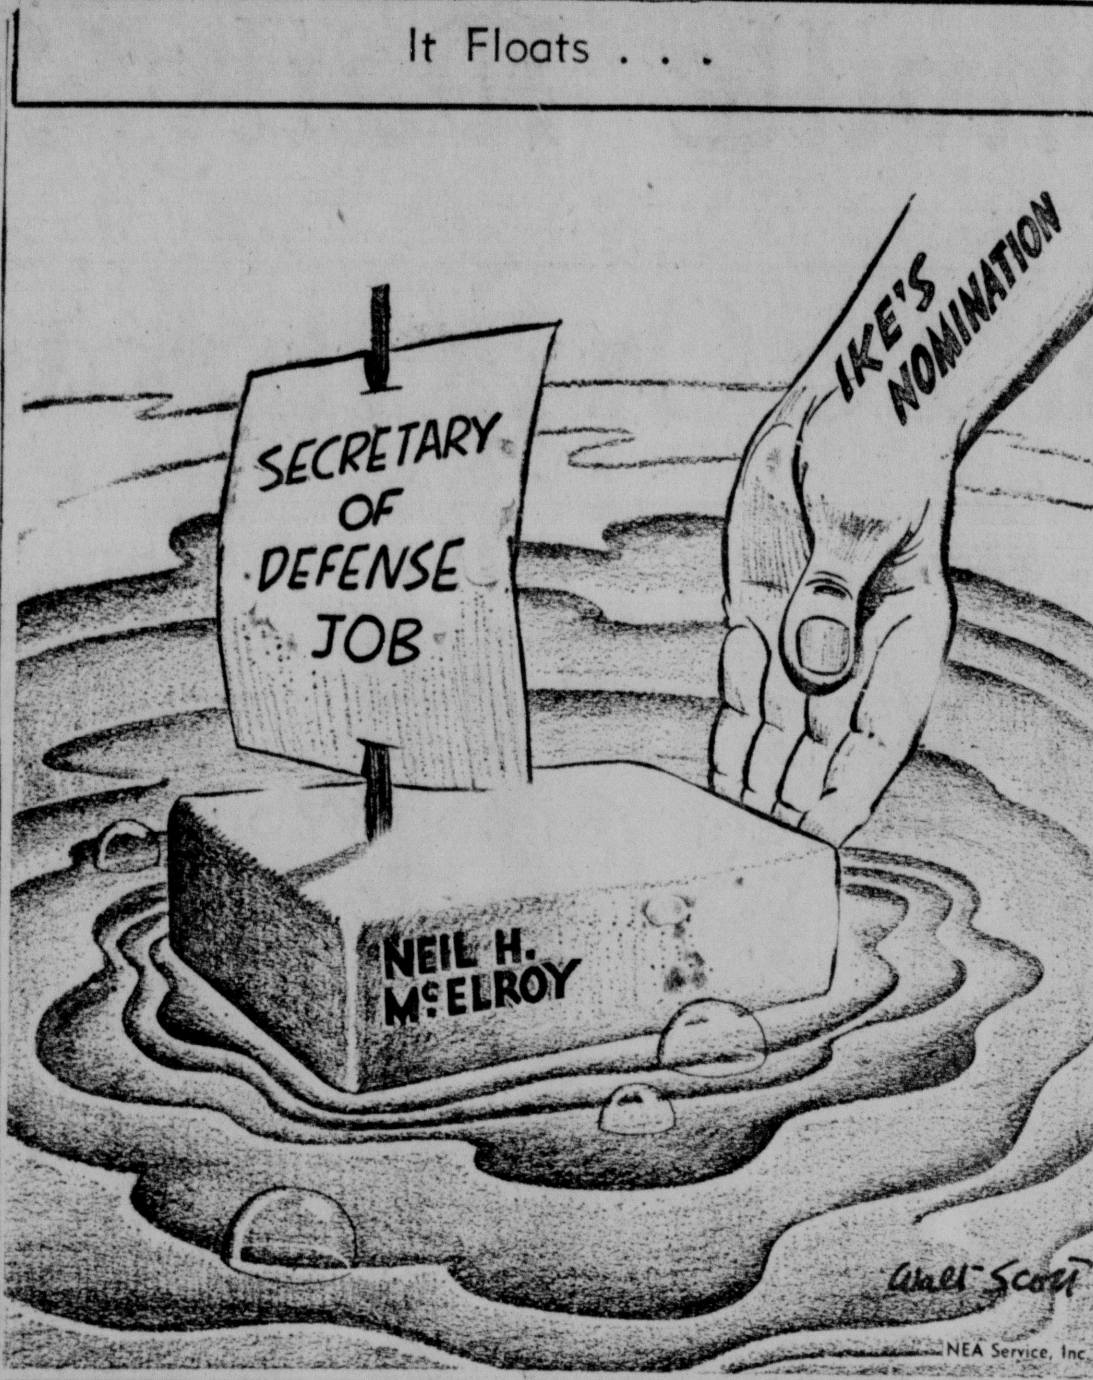

The title of the film is, "The Fuzzy Pink Nightgown." Hollywood moral: If a girl escaped the cheesecake trap herself, who cares if they put it in the title?

Capital's Traffic Manners

Indicate Irritable Moods

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The mood of the traffic down Connecticut Ave. during the morning rush to work is a good indicator of the current temper here.

For the past several weeks it has been vicious. And it's getting worse.

At its upper end, Connecticut taps the pleasant, modest community of Kensington, Md., where thousands of middle-income government workers live. Just outside the District of Columbia the avenue gets the load from Chevy Chase. This influx includes the top-level civil service workers, government officials, several Cabinet members, congressmen, senators and some judges.

Inside the District the avenue picks up everything from the big shots who live in the fancy new apartments, to the lowest level of government workers residing in the grubby, crowded, hot, older sections of Washington.

Thus, by the time this main traffic artery is swollen with its full load, there's every breed of public servant from every branch of the federal government in the wild race to give the American taxpayer a full day's work.

During many periods, when the reading on the crisis thermometer is around normal, the ride down Connecticut can be pleasant. The crowded car-poolers look out of the windows of their 1950 cars at the chauffeur-driven cabinet officers with more interest than envy. The congressmen and senators keep a friendly hail to each other regardless of party.

The honking is not hateful. The racing away from stoplights is not murderous. Once in a while a driver will give another a break, or a turn.

But there hasn't been a friendly traffic gesture made on Connecticut Ave. in more than a month and there are plenty of reasons why.

IN THE FIRST PLACE, Congress should either be out of town or about to wind up its business by this time. But the civil rights fight is keeping lawmakers in the city and that is making nobody happy, including them. And there's nothing humorous or entertaining about this issue, either, to relieve the strain and bitterness of the whole debate.

Accompanying the civil rights fight on Capitol Hill is a big economy drive. And if there's anything that'll make the morning Connecticut Ave. drivers jittery and ill-tempered it's this.

They can't even think of gardening and baseball without irritation. A murderous drought has turned the greenest thumbs into parched brown. Neighboring farmers have been hit a terrible blow. Only the crab grass is thriving under the shortage of rain.

HOME RUN SLUGGING Roy Sievers is doing his best to give the government workers something to talk about now that the Senators are out of the cellar. And he's succeeding very well. But there's the suspicion that the real force behind Roy's vicious cuts at the ball these days is his irritation with what's going on in town, too.

As a matter of fact, it might be a good idea if manager Cookie Lavagetto made each member of the team drive down Connecticut Ave. to batting practice every morning when they're in town. It would put some fight into the club.

Martha knows whereof she speaks. Her last four films have had her coloring with comies. She has ranged from the wacky antics of Jerry Lewis in "The Delicate Delinquent" to the teacup comedies of David Niven in "My Man Godfrey."

She just returned from Paris where she referred Bob Hope and Fernandel in "Paris Holiday." Now she's heading out west with two new funnymen, Rowan and Martin, in "Once Upon A Horse."

Martha thinks there's a laugh cycle coming in films, and she could be right. The studios are finally loosening up with some comedies after years of grim fare.

One of the reasons the studios backed away from comedy was that so much was being laded forth on TV—or at least what passed for comedy. Now, with the age of the TV comic having faded, movies could fill in the void.

OUTLIVES POLICY
BLACKSTONE, Va. (P)—James S. Robertson didn't pay much attention to the fact that the $1,000 insurance policy he took out in 1904 would be payable at his age value if he lived until he was 96.

Paul V. Severin, Richmond agent for the Union Central Life Insurance Company, came here personally to make the payment and offer congratulations.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo. (P)—The famous old El Paso mine here is being reopened but for a new purpose. The dark recesses of the second level will be used by a group of men to grow mushrooms.

READ THE WANT-ADS

Too Small Circle of Friends
Can Mean Boring Existence

It's good for a marriage—For a husband and wife to keep making new friends. When they limit their social life to a tight little group they soon become bored with and supercritical of their new friends.

For both the husband and wife to take a separate vacation occasionally. After even the briefest separation, each sees the other with a new awareness.

For small hurts and resentments to be dealt with as they come along, instead of smoothed over and stored up.

For a husband and wife to count their blessings. There's too much talk in most homes about what the couple is still striving to get and not enough about what they already have.

For a couple deliberately to seek new experiences. It's the finest way in the world to keep life from becoming too routine.

BE PARTNERS
For a husband and wife to shop together for the furniture and equipment that goes into their home. A man's home is sure to mean more to him if he helps choose the things that go into it.

For a wife to know as much as possible about her husband's business. A wife who feels like a partner is more understanding of the demands of her husband's job.

For a couple to plan together for the future, instead of just drifting along trying to meet today's bills and obligations.

This influx includes the top-level civil service workers, government officials, several Cabinet members, congressmen, senators and some judges.

Inside the District the avenue picks up everything from the big shots who live in the fancy new apartments, to the lowest level of government workers residing in the grubby, crowded, hot, older sections of Washington.

Thus, by the time this main traffic artery is swollen with its full load, there's every breed of public servant from every branch of the federal government in the wild race to give the American taxpayer a full day's work.

During many periods, when the reading on the crisis thermometer is around normal, the ride down Connecticut can be pleasant. The crowded car-poolers look out of the windows of their 1950 cars at the chauffeur-driven cabinet officers with more interest than envy. The congressmen and senators keep a friendly hail to each other regardless of party.

The honking is not hateful. The racing away from stoplights is not murderous. Once in a while a driver will give another a break, or a turn.

But there hasn't been a friendly traffic gesture made on Connecticut Ave. in more than a month and there are plenty of reasons why.

IN THE FIRST PLACE, Congress should either be out of town or about to wind up its business by this time. But the civil rights fight is keeping lawmakers in the city and that is making nobody happy, including them. And there's nothing humorous or entertaining about this issue, either, to relieve the strain and bitterness of the whole debate.

Accompanying the civil rights fight on Capitol Hill is a big economy drive. And if there's anything that'll make the morning Connecticut Ave. drivers jittery and ill-tempered it's this.

They can't even think of gardening and baseball without irritation. A murderous drought has turned the greenest thumbs into parched brown. Neighboring farmers have been hit a terrible blow. Only the crab grass is thriving under the shortage of rain.

HOME RUN SLUGGING Roy Sievers is doing his best to give the government workers something to talk about now that the Senators are out of the cellar. And he's succeeding very well. But there's the suspicion that the real force behind Roy's vicious cuts at the ball these days is his irritation with what's going on in town, too.

As a matter of fact, it might be a good idea if manager Cookie Lavagetto made each member of the team drive down Connecticut Ave. to batting practice every morning when they're in town. It would put some fight into the club.

Martha knows whereof she speaks. Her last four films have had her coloring with comies. She has ranged from the wacky antics of Jerry Lewis in "The Delicate Delinquent" to the teacup comedies of David Niven in "My Man Godfrey."

She just returned from Paris where she referred Bob Hope and Fernandel in "Paris Holiday." Now she's heading out west with two new funnymen, Rowan and Martin, in "Once Upon A Horse."

Martha thinks there's a laugh cycle coming in films, and she could be right. The studios are finally loosening up with some comedies after years of grim fare.

One of the reasons the studios backed away from comedy was that so much was being laded forth on TV—or at least what passed for comedy. Now, with the age of the TV comic having faded, movies could fill in the void.

OUTLIVES POLICY
BLACKSTONE, Va. (P)—James S. Robertson didn't pay much attention to the fact that the $1,000 insurance policy he took out in 1904 would be payable at his age value if he lived until he was 96.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (P)—The man with the tingling ears is Sen. Lyndon Johnson, who likes praise. He got plenty for his maneuvering on the civil rights bill. No matter who wins or loses in that fight, he did himself some good, personally.

The tall Texan, leader of the Senate Democrats, disclaims presidential ambitions in 1960. But for a man who may be a candidate, he was painfully lost in the political woods when the civil rights bill passed by the House two days before.

It was his opposite number, Sen. Knowland of California, leader of the Senate Republicans and also a presidential possibility, who got up June 20 and proposed the Senate consider the civil rights bill passed by the House two days before.

This move gave Republicans the jump in claiming—if a civil rights bill was passed—the gratitude of Northern Negroes, whose vote is increasingly important and in time the gratitude of Southern Negro voters.

This is what Johnson faced when Knowland suddenly opened the battle:

1. Ruination of his own presidential hopes—if he has any—at the next Democratic convention if he joined his fellow Southerners in fighting a civil rights bill.

2. A shattering split in the Democratic party. Southern Democrats had threatened all-out resistance. They could be crushed and a bill passed only if Northern Democrats lined up with Republicans against them.

3. Condemnation of the Democratic party, not only by Negroes but by all those sympathetic to civil rights legislation, if Northern Democrats let Southern Democrats block the bill. Such criticism would not help the Democrats' chances in the 1958 elections.

All three problems could be solved if:

Southerners agreed to compromise instead of filibustering; Northern Democrats agreed to some compromises the Southerners wanted; and the compromised bill still could get enough votes at least to pass the Senate.

It was possible House and Senate might fail to agree on a single bill satisfactory to both. Or if they did agree and presented President Eisenhower a bill heavily compromised, he might feel compelled to veto it.

Either of those things may happen now. If either does, there will be no civil rights law this year. But at least the Democrats will be in a better position to argue on who shot John than they were when Knowland took the lead June 20.

On the vote putting the big compromise into the bill—jury trial for those charged not only in voting rights cases but for all cases of criminal contempt of court—an overwhelming number of Democrats, North and South, voted together for it. An overwhelming number of Republicans voted against it.

On the final vote to pass the bill—when it was no longer possible to stop the compromise—Republicans joined Northern Democrats and a handful of Southerners to approve the bill.

By this time the Southerners had dropped their resistance and let the compromised bill come to a vote although all but five of them voted against it.

Johnson voted for the compromise. So did one of the authors of the compromise, another Southerner, Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.), twice a presidential aspirant and perhaps a candidate for the nomination again. This vote kept them in good Southern standing.

Johnson voted for the bill as a whole, which he engineered, on final passage. So did Kefauver. No Southerners criticized them. Both now are on the record for a civil rights bill. A "no" vote would have hurt either's chances of consideration at the Democratic convention three years from now.

In the end—because it was the Democrats who dominated the picture through Northern-Southern away back in the bushes on June 20, took the lead from Knowland.

Under the bill as it stands Negroes would gain. If the bill now is allowed to die or is vetoed, the Southerners, who talked of endless fight but then compromised, will be the winners. Nowhere in this picture does Johnson figure to lose.

Medical Science Still

Seeks Answer to Hives

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Of all the allergies, hives, or urticaria, is probably the most perplexing.

It is frequently impossible to find the cause and it is too often impossible to effect a cure. Furthermore, an attack may come on suddenly, not only without apparent cause, but leave without any treatment at all and never occur again.

As a rule, urticaria is characterized by the appearance on the skin of reddish, swollen spots measuring half an inch or more across which itch intensely. They may appear almost anywhere on the skin and may last for only a few hours and then disappear without apparent reason or may last for days or even weeks. Certainly there is no single "cause" since urticaria can develop from a great many different things.

Therefore, in a way, it is not proper to call it a disease.

Apparently there is some special quality about the person who has urticaria which makes it possible. For example, most of us can eat strawberries without developing hives, but a few break out with hives if they eat even a single berry.

Urticaria can follow swallowing almost any food or drug. It often appears as the result of infection, heat, furs or insect bites. Curiously enough, most patients with hives do not show skin reaction when given the skin tests with the offending agent. This is difficult to explain and, of course, has made identification of the cause in many cases of obscure origin extremely difficult.

AN EFFORT should always be made to find the cause. If this can be done, avoidance of the offending substance will usually cause the urticaria to disappear. Shunning it in the future usually prevents its reappearance.

Medical treatment is often disappointing. There is nothing which can be put on the surface of the skin to make the hives disappear, although the itching often can be partly relieved.

EPINEPHRINE or adrenalin—(useful in some allergies) has proved disappointing.

The drugs known as antihistamines, of which there are several kinds on the market, however, often prove helpful. When properly used they may relieve the symptoms for hours though they do not cure the underlying cause. The kind of urticaria which is chronic is particularly difficult to treat and is a trial to both patient and physician.

Beef Kebabs and Rice

Make Good Summer Fare

BEef KEBABS with rice and raisins is as attractive-looking as it is good-tasting.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Something substantial to eat, yet food alluring to slightly wilted appetites is what every homemaker wants for her hot weather family dinners. The combination of cubes of round steak, marinated in French dressing, then broiled on skewers with onions and tomato wedges—all served with pre-cooked rice is a perfect selection. Different, easy to prepare, nutritious and packed with flavor, it can be cooked over a barbecue grill or indoors in a pre-heated oven.

Kebabs and Rice
(Makes 4-6 servings)
One pound round steak (1/4-inch thick), cut in 1-inch cubes, 1 cup (about) garlic-flavored French dressing, 4 medium tomatoes, cut in wedges, 8 to 10 small onions, cut in slices, or canned whole onions, 1 one-third cup (5-ounce package) packaged pre-cooked rice, 1 cup raisins, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup boiling water, 2 tablespoons butter.

Marinate meat in French dressing for about 2 hours. Place alternately with tomato wedges and onion slices or whole onions on metal skewers. Place on aluminum foil in pre-heated oven about 4 inches under broiler unit or suspended over glowing coals of open fire or barbecue grill for 15 to 20 minutes, or until meat is cooked. Turn frequently during cooking and baste with remaining dressing. Meanwhile, add package of pre-cooked rice, raisins, and salt to boiling water in saucepan. Mix just to moisten all rice. Cover and remove from heat. Let stand 12 minutes. Add butter, mixing lightly with a fork. Serve rice with kebabs.

Interpreting The News

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Every now and then the State Department creates misunderstanding because someone discussing a specific point makes a broad statement which can be misinterpreted as applying to general policy.

The same thing happens when a "let it blow over" attitude is taken toward some slip of the tongue that needs explanation.

Examples of both situations have occurred recently.

The other day Secretary Dulles, testifying about the administration plan for long-term "soft" loans to countries which the United States wishes to save from communism, said:

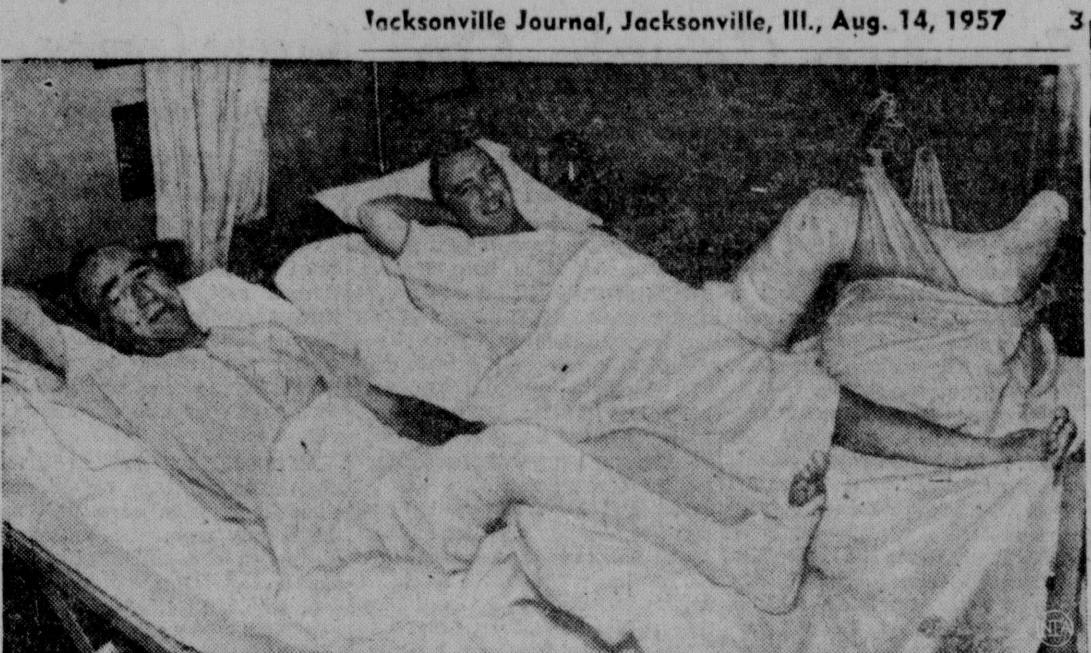

"Not for one minute do I think the purpose of the State Department is to make friends. The purpose of the State Department is to look out for the interests of the United States. Whether we make friends, I do not care."

The record of American action clearly shows that the secretary meant the United States was not trying to buy friendship with these loans, but trying to build a practical barrier against Communism.

Dulles is connected with many projects, such as the U. S. Information Service, including the Voice of America, which are directly concerned with creating friendship with President Eisenhower has initiated or endorsed numerous projects for that purpose and says the United States wants to be friends with everybody.

But the secretary's statement is open to misrepresentation. It gives a handle to foreign propagandists. A Cairo newspaper said: "Dulles could look out for U. S. interests, but why do that without consideration of the friendship on enemy of other people."

He doesn't, but for the moment was applying himself to a specific attitude in a specific case. It would have been better if he had phrased it to make that clear.

Gable Denies Report Woman 'Had Affair' With Him To Get Story

By JACK LEFLER
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Clark Gable says he doesn't even know Francesca de Scaffa, who was quoted in the Confidential Magazine criminal libel trial as saying she "had an affair" with him while getting information for a story about his first wife.

On the Hawaiian island of Maui, Gable said about testimony concerning the purported affair: "I think I would remember that, but to my knowledge I never met the lady in my life."

Gable is vacationing on the island with his present wife, the former Kay Strykowski.

Former Confidential Editor Howard Rushmore testified Monday that Miss de Scaffa, former wife of actor Bruce Cabot, told him she had the affair with Gable. At the time, Rushmore said, she was gathering information for a story on Josephine Dillon, a drama coach to whom Gable was married from 1924 to 1930.

Rushmore had testified earlier that Miss de Scaffa, whom he identified as Confidential's chief source of information in Hollywood, had told him she would be willing to have affairs with movie stars to get material for stories.

The defense counsel asked Rushmore: "Did she tell you that she obtained information on any story by sleeping with someone?"

"Yes," said Rushmore. "She said she got the information on the Dillon story from a person she was having an affair with."

Asked to name the person, Rushmore replied:

Charge Servant Bilked Publisher In Mount Vernon

MOUNT VERNON, Ill. (AP) — A trusted servant employed 20 years by a newspaper publisher here was in jail today charged with bilking his employer by cashing copies of his pay checks.

The man, Columbus Eggleston, 53, Negro, used his 14-year-old niece to copy the checks, Sheriff Leonard Wood said.

Eggleston cashed $1,800 in bogus and bona fide checks, since last March, the sheriff said. They were drawn on the account of his employer, Edwin Rackaway, owner and publisher of the Mount Vernon Register-News.

Sheriff Wood said Eggleston cashed both the original check and the copy his niece worked on. Wood said Eggleston's niece, Marian Bibbs, has "the prettiest handwriting you ever did see."

St. Louis Cardinals were shut out 33 times during the 1908 season, a major league record.

Greene County Delegates Will Attend Meeting

CARROLLTON—The executive board of the Greene County Home Bureau met in business session Friday afternoon in the Farm Bureau hall and made plans to attend the Southwest District Home Bureau meeting to be held at MacMurray College, Jacksonville, Sept. 6.

Attending will be the vice chairman and the organization committees from each unit and the county membership committee which consists of Mrs. Jack McConathy, Mrs. Richard Hamann, Mrs. Darrell Ash and Mrs. Lee Witt. Mrs. Ebert Walkington the president of the county organization and Mrs. Ethel Belote county home adviser will also attend. As the date of the above meeting falls on the regular monthly meeting of the local executive board, the time of meeting for the local board has been changed to Saturday, Sept. 7.

Plans were also discussed concerning the Greene County Home Bureau annual meeting to be held this winter and Mrs. Ellis Walkington, Roodhouse, Mrs. L. R. Lee, Roodhouse; Mrs. Roy Hetick, Greenfield and Mrs. Ebert Walkington, Athensville were named members of the program and planning committee for that event.

Announcement was made of the fact that Miss Carolyn Grubbs who has been serving as assistant youth adviser in the local Home Bureau office will leave the county Aug. 23 to resume her duties as a member of the faculty of the Pittsfield High School.

Radio Makes Tourists Feel Right At Home

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AMSTERDAM — America's army of tourists abroad needn't feel homesick.
Just switch on a radio — and you're back in the old home town. Sometimes the words are different (you haven't really lived until you've heard a Danish crooner tackle "Taking A Chance on Love"), but the tunes that swarm the airwaves are the same songs they've got in Keokuk and Walla-Walla.

Rodgers & Hammerstein, New Orleans jazz, swing and a fear-some scoop of rock 'n' roll. There are also some surprises for the traveler's pocket set: String quartets follow cricket from London's BBC; Luxembourg relays an old-fashioned religious revival from Long Beach, Calif., at 11 p.m.; Amsterdam blares band music before breakfast (Why hasn't some Yankee disc jockey gone on a Sousa spree?)

And, oh blessed quiet, practically every station signs off by midnight and fills the night with silence. The dominant impression gained from eavesdropping on a cross-section of Western Europe's air fare is the overwhelming popularity of American tunes—from "My Fair Lady" back to "Babes in Toyland." London, Copenhagen, Rome, Brussels. The pattern is the same.

The red-white-and-blue pattern isn't aimed at the visitors, of course, but at the home folks who have apparently succumbed unanimously to be-bop, cha-cha, the Ink Spots, Frankie Laine — and most of all to Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong. He's the man whose records you hear most.

Only Stockholm has a program aimed at tourists directly—mostly weather, news and where to get today's best bargain souvenirs. Because most of the transmitters are state-operated, the commercial plug is absent. Only a few spots, such as the privately operated Luxembourg transmitter, carry ads—and proclaim them in English. No use bothering the natives.

Your electric bill is higher when it's hotter

... electricity works overtime
during the summer

The tinkling of ice cubes in a frosty lemonade, the hard-working purr of a window fan or air conditioner, the hum of a refrigerator that is keeping a salad crisp... these are the sounds of electricity working to keep your family cool and comfortable in hot weather.

Electricity works all year long, every hour of the day to make living better and easier for all of us. But during the hot summer months electricity works overtime.

And if your electric service bills go up during the summer, along with temperatures, remember how much more often your family called upon electricity to help keep cool.

Stolen Money Does Odd Things To People

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Money—especially a lot of stolen money—does strange, and different, things to various people.

For example, take the two major figures charged in the theft of upwards of $200,000 from William Marshall Bullitt's Oxmoor estate last Nov. 25.

Arrested Saturday, Carl Jackson, 31, seemed to enjoy telling how he lived it up during the eight months between the robbery and his arrest.

On the other hand, James E. Easley, 35, accused as Jackson's accomplice, said he "lived in misery."

Police and FBI agents charged both with safebreaking and housebreaking. Also arrested and charged with knowingly receiving stolen property were Alphonso Gillespie, Cora Mae Palmer, Jackson's common law wife; Henry Johnson, 39; and Bozzia Easley, Bullitt's chauffeur, and Jackson are accused of taking the money (the amount of which still is not determined) from a safe in the Bullitt home.

Easley told police he hid his share in the basement of the home, where police found $40,000 in a pipe. He said he spent none of it because "I was afraid people would notice it if I did."

Jackson, on the other hand, gave his share (various versions set it between $51,000 and $137,000) to Gillespie for safekeeping.

Gillespie gave the money to his sister in Washington, D. C., but left it there only three days. He then gave it back to Jackson.

Jackson said the loot was $3,000 short when Gillespie gave it back. Gillespie said Jackson took him to the city dump, "pulled a shotgun and told me to give him the money back or he'd kill me. Gillespie returned the $3,000."

A day or two later, Jackson gave the money back to Gillespie who, in turn, passed it to Johnson, who withdrew $5,000 from the bundle.

Later, Gillespie took the money from Johnson and gave it to Griffin. How much was taken during the passing is not known. Jackson said Gillespie gave him parts of it from time to time and Gillespie says he used some.

Police said those arrested had been under observation since the theft.

VISIT IN BEARDSTOWN

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sawyer of Atwater, Ill., spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. James Littleton and family. They were accompanied here by Miss Beulah Littleton who was a two week visitor in their home.

In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer, accompanied by the James Littletons, called on Mr. and Mrs. Meade Anderson near Beardstown and bought some of the melons grown in that area.

While there they also called on other friends, the Littletons being former residents of Beardstown.

America To Get Grandstand Seat To See Soviet Man-Made Moons

AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK (AP)—Russia will give Americans a grandstand seat to see the Soviet man-made moons sent up to explore space.

But few Russians are likely to see American-made moons.

Many Americans may see the moons of both nations. Soviet citizens will have only their own to look for.

The reason is not a "moon curtain"—it is not international. It just works out that way due to the orbits each nation has chosen.

Our moons or artificial earth satellites will travel generally east to west around the world.

This means they will be visible only certain distances north and south of the Equator. The northern limit of vision could miss Russia almost entirely. It could miss Europe and many northern U.S. cities also.

But the Russians will send their moons wheeling north to south, near the poles. As the earth rotates beneath them, the moons will cross all parts of the United States as well as Russia.

Both countries plan to send man-made moons circling the earth during the International Geophysical Year. Shot up by rockets, the little metal spheres will be the first explorers of space.

Instruments and radios inside the balls will tell us how empty or cold space is, how intense the sun's rays are, how many cosmic rays and meteors flock through space.

So far the Russians have said very little officially about their moon plans. It's a guessing game whether they can launch one before we do, probably early next year.

But Prof. I. P. Bardin, president of the Soviet IGY committee, has announced the Soviet moons would be launched at a small angle to the meridian, from a yet-undisclosed spot in the U.S.S.R.

This means they will fly north and south and therefore be visible in all areas of the earth except the central areas of the Arctic and Antarctic, he said.

The U.S. moons—six are planned—will be launched on a southeast course from Cape Canaveral, Fla. Reasons for this site are explained by Dr. John P. Hagen, director of Project Vanguard. Cape Canaveral is the site of

Outside Edge Of Highway Marked As Experiment

WAVERLY — The addition of white stripes along the outside edge of State Route 104 between Auburn and Waverly, has created considerable comment hereabouts during the past few days. Employees of the State Highway Department moved into the stretch of road last Friday and performed the work necessary to apply the new white lines.

By applying a mixture of white paint and ground glass, a stripe has been produced that is more readily visible at night. The purpose of the outside lines is to make it possible for the driver to be aware of the road's edge as well as its center. It appears that the work done here last week is still on an experimental basis since such an application has not been made on any other highway in this area.

Diseron-Ross Vows Pledged In Concord Aug. 10

CONCORD — Ruth Ross of Rushville, Ill., and Richard Diseron of Ray, Ill., were united in matrimony at the Concord Methodist church at 2 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 10, with the Rev. Robert Birdsell officiating at the double rite ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Dale Phillips of Rushville were the attendants.

The bride was attired in a street length light blue dress and wore a corsage of pink carnations as was the matron of honor. The groom wore a light grey suit and the best man a blue suit, each wearing a white carnation.

The couple left immediately following the ceremony for a honeymoon in the western states. On their return they will live in an apartment at Rushville. Mr. Diseron will continue to farm with his father and Mrs. Diseron will return to her job at the Court House in Rushville.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. John Pendergast and sons, Charles and William of Jackson, Miss., have returned to their home after spending the past two weeks with Mrs. Blanche King and Mr. and Mrs. Jim King and daughter.

ATOMS OVER BRUSSELS—The 360-foot-high Atomium, sketched above, will be the dominant theme-structure at the 1958 Brussels World's Fair. Equivalent to a 30-story skyscraper, it will represent the atomic structure of an elemental iron crystal enlarged 160 billion times. The Atomium consists of nine gigantic steel spheres, each 59 feet in diameter, interconnected by a series of 95-foot tubular passageways. The structure, with an overall weight of 1,400 tons, will rest on a base sphere with additional support from a trio of rigid steel pylons buttressing the three lower spheres.

First Scout Leader Training Session To Be Held At Woodson

Cub Scout leaders basic training will be offered in three sessions, beginning Wednesday, Aug. 14, at 7:30 p.m., according to Morris Gotschall, leadership training chairman of the Honorable Abe Boy Scout district.
John Ennis, of the training committee has organized the course and has announced that the first meeting will be at Woodson American Legion Hall, with leaders of Pack 159 as hosts.
Mr. Ennis stated that the course is being given for Cubmasters, Den Mothers, and Pack Committeemen, but that any interested Cub Scout parent is welcome to attend. The first meeting is especially helpful to new parents in Cub Scouting, since considerable time is spent on the Cub Scout achievement plan.

There are now 13 Cub Packs serving over 400 boys in the Honorable Abe district which includes Cass, Morgan, Scott and the northern part of Greene counties. These packs are located in Jacksonville, Waverly, Winchester, and Beardstown, which has three newly organized packs.
Parents from communities which do not have Cub Scouting are invited to attend any or all of the three training sessions. A representative from the district organization and extension committee will be present at all three meetings to meet with any one interested in forming a new pack. So far this committee, which is headed by Larry Bottomley, has had requests for information about Cub Scouts from Meredosia, Chapin, Virginia, Litchberry, Ashland, Chandierville.
Meeting places for the other two sessions of the basic training will be announced later. Cub leaders who missed a session at earlier courses are urged to make them up now.

Coin Box With $10 Stolen At Lukeman Garage

Lukeman's garage on West State street was burglarized Monday night or early Tuesday morning, with an estimated loss of $10 stolen from the coin box of a cigar machine.

Patrolmen Hill and Daniels found a window open on the east side of the building at 3:45 a.m., while making their rounds.
A suspect was picked up for questioning later in the morning. Police found $13.50 in nickels and quarters in possession of the suspect, against whom no charges have yet been preferred.

Local Youths Defeated In Ohio Finals

After three wins in the North Regional Colt League tournament, Jacksonville's turn to lose. And lose they did, two heartbreakers to Martin's Ferry of Eastern Ohio.
Merritt Norvell hurled for Jacksonville and gave up only four hits. Martin's Ferry, however, managed to get three unearned runs on five Jacksonville errors to win the first one five to one. Jacksonville had one run, five hits and five errors; at the end of nine, Martin's Ferry had five runs, four hits and one error.

In the second game John Fitzpatrick carried Jacksonville's hopes in the double elimination tournament. Fitzpatrick gave up only four hits but Martin's Ferry made the most of it in gaining three runs to the two that Jacksonville was able to pick up. At the end of the second nine it was Martin's Ferry with three runs, four hits and two errors and Jacksonville with two runs, five hits and three errors.
Over 160 teams competed in the Northern region. Jacksonville copped second place in the region and a handsome trophy. Van Wert of Indiana came in third and Mount Pleasant, Mich. was fourth.

Fricke Buys Out Partner In Funeral Home

LINCOLN, Ill. — James Stubblefield of Jacksonville, bidding on behalf of Armin E. Fricke, made the high bid of $108,100 for the Dammerman & Fricke Funeral Home assets at public auction Monday afternoon at the Logan county court house.

There were three bidders: Fricke, Dammerman and Stubblefield, and at conclusion of the sale Stubblefield announced he was bidding for Fricke, who is a former Jacksonville resident. Fricke reentered the funeral profession several years ago after having served as chief deputy in the Morgan county sheriff's office, and as corner of Morgan county.

Bidding started at $70,000 with Master In Chancery William G. Bates Jr. conducting the sale, for settlement of a partition suit brought by Herman Dammerman against Armin E. Fricke and others.
Fricke said the business would continue under the partnership until the sale was confirmed in Circuit Court.

Soil Bank Plan To Be Explained At Carrollton

Representatives will be present from Greene, Macoupin, Jersey, Calhoun and Scott counties. The meeting is being sponsored by the Greene County Farm Bureau and all interested persons are invited to attend.

'Free' Newsprint For Southeast Asia Puts Commie Propagandists In The Red

By EDWARD R. KENNEDY
NEA Special Correspondent

BANGKOK—(NEA)—A notable "contradiction" may be aired behind closed doors in Peking soon as a result of Red China's most successful infiltrations of the press in Southeast Asia.

The Chinese Communists were wooing and winning a great deal of editorial support by supplying newsprint from the mainland free or at prices 35 per cent below the world market.

In pro-Western Thailand, in soon-to-be independent Malaya and in neutral Cambodia, the Reds struck this bargain—generally with overseas Chinese publishers—in exchange for full editorial support of Communist policies and favorable news treatment.

The "contradiction" arose when it became evident that the propaganda gambit was successful but that Red China simply could not maintain an adequate supply of cheap newsprint.

Trying to conceal this fact from the publishers, the Communists bought Czechoslovakian paper in Hongkong, re-wrapped it and labeled it "Made in Mainland China." Southeast Asian publishers discovered the true origin when the paper was used up and iron rims on the rolls were found to be stamped "Made in Czechoslovakia."

Meanwhile the less scrupulous publishers found out they could report false circulation figures and have plenty of cheap newsprint left over to peddle out the back door.

Thus the Chinese Communists find themselves committed to a deal which forces them to buy expensive newsprint, then sell it at low prices or give it away in exchange for editorial favors, knowing full well that a good portion of it is going for other uses to the publishers' capitalistic profit.

Here in Bangkok, the Chicomso offered newsprint at $160 a ton, compared to the world market price of $230 a ton delivered with duty paid. The long term payments are to be written off against the number of inches of editorial matter devoted to Red China. Cash and equipment have also been put up to buy the Communist line.

One Bangkok Chinese language daily was on the ropes last fall. Debt-ridden, it was even unable to meet its payroll. Without subsidy, it had been supporting the pro-Nationalist point of view.

Its publishers made a trip to Hongkong and met a Chinese Communist fixer. He was handed $10,000 in cash to pay off debts and employees. A new Japanese rotary press valued at $40,000 was provided and to keep the press busy, $50,000 worth of newsprint was supplied. Total cost for a new editorial point of view — $100,000.

When the new press was installed, the paper increased its size by four full pages daily which are devoted to favorable articles and news stories about mainland China.

Three other Bangkok Chinese dailies considered the deal and estimated they could save about $9,000 a month if they accepted, but so far they have made no decision. Discussions were also underway to supply paper for two leading Thai language papers, but since the mainland production has fallen short of the expected exportable supply, these deals may not be concluded.

A leading daily in Malaya and two papers in Cambodia are also reported to be trading propaganda for newsprint.

Chinese observers here comment that the pro-Communist propaganda printed by the two committed papers here is gaining wide acceptance among the uneducated circles and youthful student groups. It is not effective with the older businessmen who are more interested in long-term profits than in politics.

"Chinese commercialism will outlast Chinese Communism," one observer pointed out. "And any Chinese businessman knows you cannot indefinitely sell something for less than it costs."

They do not expect the newsprint bonanza to last.

Whiz's Mother And Psychologist Agree Boy Genius Is Not Necessarily Unmitigated Brat

YONKERS, N. Y. (AP)—Many people, confronted with a boy genius, immediately assume the child must be a brilliant but unmitigated brat.

True or false? False, say experts like Dr. Irving Lorge, psychologist of Columbia University, who has made broad studies of gifted children.

False, says Mrs. Albert Strom, whose testimony might be considered prejudiced except that she appears to have examined the question critically. Her son Robert, 11, is probably the country's best known juvenile brain, having won $24,000 on TV with hitherto unknown knowledge of the sciences.

More than 99 per cent of gifted children, Dr. Lorge has found, usually are well rounded emotionally. Other authorities agree that a child highly developed in one area frequently is well developed in others and in his ability to get along with people.

Living with Robert Strom, concedes his mother, is like living with a Roman candle. "He emits sparks all the time. He is intense about everything. The most frequent phrase we have to use with him is 'Simmer down.'"

But, she also points out, the boy responds to authority, he respects the law, he is a child in an adult world (where few adults have his high I. Q. or special knowledge). He is a highly social creature who plays child games with other children and is well liked by them. His teachers find him well adjusted although there is very little they can teach him.

Mrs. Strom holds a master's degree in education. Her husband teaches electricity in a vocational school. Their older son, Stephen, 14, also is highly gifted; he attends a special science high school for children with rare ability. Robert has just completed fifth grade in a public elementary school.

At 3, Robert could read and write. At 4, he was typing. At 5, he was writing stories. At 7, he taught himself algebra. Now, his current bedside reading includes books on geometry, physics, geology, electronics, anthropology, advanced mathematics, stories from Shakespeare as well as juvenile mysteries and space cadet fiction.

For his 11th birthday in June, Robert asked for and received three new books—"An Introduction to Symbolic Logic," "Geometry of Four Dimensions" and "Prelude to Mathematics."

Can such a boy be anything but bored in the ordinary school? "That's the amazing thing," says his mother. "I keep wondering when he'll start to cut up in class. But he's very adaptable. He respects the teachers' authority. They say he does not try to dominate the class or all the answers; he is not a wild hand-waver."

"If school does bore him, he doesn't complain about it. He goes through the motions of relearning things he has known well for years. Sometimes he will come home and poke fun at the arithmetic he learned that day. But in school, the teachers tell me, he does not flaunt knowledge."

Several times the Stroms have thought of sending Robert to a special school where the academic challenge would be greater. But they decided against uprooting him on the grounds the boy is socially happy in public school and would miss his classmates.

Robert almost always scores 100 on school tests. One recent and rare exception was a 95 he scored on a social studies test. One question undid him.

"The question," recalled Robert, a dark, solemn boy who paces when he talks, "was: What is the most important rock quarried in New England. I said granite. They said marble. What are you going to do?"

"I agree with him," said his older brother, who is not always this loyal.

The conversation was conducted long-range. The boys' parents were talking with me in the tiny kitchen of a summer cottage the Stroms have in Yonkers. The boys were supposed to be in their own rooms, out of earshot. But the house was so small the boys could hear us anywhere. Occasionally, they gossiped between themselves, tapping on a wall.

"All right, boys," their mother shouted, "stop sending those messages in Morse code."

"Most people," Mrs. Strom continued, "have the wrong idea of how a gifted child is raised. They think we have a set of guns—one labeled 'learn to type,' another labeled 'learn geometry,' and so on. Not so, at all. We haven't pushed the boys. We've just tried to keep up with them. We've tried to answer their questions or tell them where to find the answers. This is not always easy; it takes a lot of energy."

What factors, one wonders, account for a gifted child? Is it simply the high intelligence he was born with?

"That, I would say, is about 75 per cent of it," Dr. Lorge says, speaking generally and without reference to any particular child. "The rest is explained by environment, by a home situation which places a high premium on learning, by parents who stimulate and reward intellectual achievement."

To Mrs. Strom would add the factor of basic curiosity. Also, she says, neither she nor her husband, consciously stimulated or placed a premium on intellectual activity.

"It was always the boys who set the pace. We simply tried to satisfy their curiosity. Both boys asked many questions long before they could talk. They'd grunt and point and we'd say, 'that's a table, that's a chair,' and so on."

The Stroms say neither of their gifted boys is ivory towerish, moose, introverted or exclusively intellectual. They love baseball and basketball as much as any boys. They devour sports and mysteries on TV. They can rattle off the top 10 pop tunes any week, and, like brothers almost anywhere, they can't pass each other in the hall without at least a minor physicality.

"I don't think so," Mrs. Strom said. "I just like it. I guess Steve helped interest me in it." Is he still excited about being on TV?

"TV isn't such a big deal. Now that offer from IBM of a job when I grow up to do mathematical computer work, that was a big deal. Maybe when I grow up, I'll hail without at least a minor physicality."

I talked alone with Steve, who currently is busy building a 10-inch telescope for his high school astronomy class. What did he think of Robert?

"I guess I can live with him a couple of more years," he said. "Did he ever wish his brother was just a little less smart?"

"No. At least, he's somebody to talk to."

I talked alone with Robert, who was busy tinkering with a ham radio set he won on a quiz show. He explained the set very patiently, demonstrated some codes, explained that he was awaiting his FCC license. Then suddenly he came around, looked over my shoulder at my notes and said:

"You'd better make sure you say I'm not actually sending any messages. I'm not. The aerial is disconnected. I can't really send until I get my license."

Did he ever wish he was never on TV?

"I don't think so."

Why this great passion for science?

"I just like it. I guess Steve helped interest me in it."

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA)—Cookie Lavagetto, who has won pennants and broke up a no-hit World Series game with a pinch-hit against the right fielder, put on his Washington uniform. For a ball-player who knows what it is to win this in itself is an intensely wave act.

Nothing, however, compared to what Lavagetto, the old Brooklyn hero, was about to say.

Had Calvin Griffith said anything to him about a contract for next year? Cookie was, you see, the first of the interim managers to popular this season.

"Calvin hasn't brought up the subject as yet," said Lavagetto, "but I believe I have a good chance to stay."

Lavagetto actually wants to manage the Senators. He is a most courageous man. Perhaps it's the historic buildings in Washington.

Outside his office, the players were playing cards, waiting until it was time to take batting practice. Lavagetto looked at the hired hands and it gave him an idea of how to describe his team.

"The Yankees start with ace back to back," he said. "I open with deuces. Once in a while I beat an ace with a deuce, but the percentage definitely is against me."

The Senators are a rare collection of inadequates. They are loaded with athletes who couldn't make it elsewhere. They are intolerably slow. The club is seventh in the league in batting, sixth in fielding. There isn't a starting Washington pitcher in the first 30 earned-run averages, where Ted Abernathy and Chuck Stobbs are holding up the league with 6.99 and 6.55, respectively.

Joe Black walked by. Big and wide-shouldered and still young. Black should be able to throw the ball through cement. But his arm seems shot and no other outfit wanted him. Lavagetto took him because when you manage the Senators you take anybody you can get.

Do the Senators have anybody of worth in the minors? Lavagetto shook his head.

"Charley Dresen looked all over the minors and says we don't have a ballplayer," he explained. "And you know you can't buy a good one. Sure, you can trade. Somebody'll give me two 35-year-old guys for Roy Sievers."

Meanwhile, Lavagetto had to struggle along with the culls, cheered only by Sievers' spectacular home run hitting, which is about all that is keeping a dying franchise alive.

The Senators have had a long and dismal history, but the situation never before was as bad as it is today. And the Griffiths and the Robertsons have neither the inclination nor the means to do anything about it.

Yet Cookie Lavagetto, the winning ballplayer, wants to come back for more next year.

He would make an excellent third in a Russian roulette game, this manager who, because of a total lack of speed, has to play brute strength baseball with 180 hitters.

'Morale Still High' For Teams Trailing Runaway Milwaukee

NEW YORK (AP)—"Our morale is still high."

This identical quote emanated from four different National League camps Tuesday. The camps, as expected, were identified as located in St. Louis, Cincinnati, Brooklyn and Philadelphia.

The morale is about the only thing that can be classified as "up" for the Cards, Dodgers, Redlegs and Phillies who, currently, are trailing the runaway Milwaukee Braves by 51, 63, 7 and 9 games, respectively.

The feeling is that the four Milwaukee-chasers must make up some of the lost ground during the next six days or wait until next year. During the past week these clubs have done their pursuing in a disorderly retreating fashion. The Cards lost 6½ games to the Braves, the Dodgers 5½, the Reds 4 and the Phillies 5.

A week ago, the Cardinals were in first place in the most exciting pennant race the National League has had in years. No more than three games separated the first five clubs Tuesday, by virtue of a seven - game winning streak, the Braves have taken the most commanding position any club has had all year.

With the punishing home stretch still ahead, it would be foolish to say the Braves are in their stride. They are in their stride, but they should increase their already imposing advantage in their tough series with the Cards and Reds this week, the home stretch may become a joyride.

From now through Sunday, the Braves will play four games with St. Louis and three with Cincinnati. At the same time Brooklyn and Philadelphia will be meeting the second division New York Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates. When the Cards and Reds are not playing the Braves, they will be the guests of the last-place Chicago Cubs.

Most worried of the managers if Fred Hutchinson, whose Cards have lost six in succession, tumbling out of the top spot.

"Milwaukee is not right now," he said, "and I look for them to cool off a bit. But we can't afford to wait for them to come back to us. We've got to start winning—and right now."

Birdie Tebbetts faces an even bigger problem. His Reds, who have lost 6 of their last 10, must not only regain their winning habit but must learn how to beat the Braves. Cincinnati has won only 2 of 13 meetings with Milwaukee.

BOGGESS HOPES TO UMPIRE WEDNESDAY

DALLAS (AP)—Dusty Boggess, National League umpire for 14 years, left Dallas Tuesday to return to work.

Boggess became ill June 23 while umpiring a game and his trouble was diagnosed as a heart ailment. He returned to his home here to recuperate.

He said he hopes to umpire a game Wednesday night.

Giants Take 4th In Row From Dodgers, 4 - 2

NEW YORK (AP)—Ruben Gomez pitched a four-hitter for his 13th win while Don Mueller and Willie Mays each drove in two runs as the New York Giants defeated Brooklyn 4-2 Tuesday night. It was the Giants' fourth in a row over the Dodgers.

Gomez blanked the Dodgers without a hit over the last six innings.

The Giants came from behind to tie it with two in the third that chased starter Sal Maglie, then wrapped it up with two in the fifth against Ed Roebuck.

Gomez, 30, took over the major league lead in complete games with his 14th while gaining a 3-1 record against the Dodgers this season.

The Giants collected eight hits, five off Maglie, who hasn't gone the distance since July 7.

The Dodgers got one in the second on two singles and Roy Campanella's sacrifice fly.

Charlie Neal swatted his ninth homer to lead off the third for the other one.

Four Home Runs Lead Chisox To 10 - 5 Victory

CLEVELAND (AP)—Four home runs—two by Jim Rivera and one each by Sherm Lollar and Walt Dropo—gave the Chicago White Sox a 10-5 victory over the Cleveland Indians Tuesday night. It was the Indians' fifth straight loss.

The heavy slugger helped Billy Pierce to his 16th victory against losses, but he needed relief from Gerry Staley.

All of Chicago's runs came on homers. Rivera's pair of round trippers accounted for five and Lollar's homer drove in three more off Indian starter Ray Narleski.

Pierce had a two hit shutout going until the seventh, when Cleveland rallied for five runs on four hits and two walks. The big blow was a bases-loaded double by Bob Avila.

Manager Al Lopez pulled Pierce in the eighth for a pinch hitter—Dropo. He hit a two-run homer off Dick Tomaneck, third Cleveland pitcher.

Odd Assortment In Collection Box To Aid Players

HATFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Henry Betsold is a red hot New York Yankee fan and when some of the players were fined for their club activity, he set up a collection box in American Legion headquarters to help raise some money for the players.

Betsold said he sent the box to the Yankees and got a letter Tuesday from Robert Fishel of the Yanks' publicity staff. The letter thanked Betsold for his kind thoughts. It said the box opened by catcher Yogi Berra contained:

An American Legion button, three screws, a small drill, a key, two erasers, two paper clips, a match, and pennies and nickels totaling 40 cents.

Schoendienst Pays Fine For Speeding

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A traffic violation after the All-Star baseball game here July 9 cost second baseman Red Schoendienst $30 Tuesday. He pleaded guilty to driving 58 miles per hour in a 30-mile zone.

Schoendienst, now with the Milwaukee Braves and a former St. Louis Cardinal, was trying to catch a train the day after the game when picked up.

COMPLETE SELLOUT OF RESERVED SEATS FOR CARDINAL GAMES

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves Tuesday announced a complete sellout of all reserved tickets for the four-game series with the St. Louis Cardinals at County Stadium Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

All that is left are 7,500 unserved bleacher and standing tickets for each game. These will be placed on sale at the stadium two hours before each contest.

S. DAKOTA PHEASANT SEASON OPENS OCT. 26

PIERRE, S. D. (AP)—The State Game Commission Tuesday set a 37-day pheasant season which will begin Oct. 26. An open season will be held in every county.

Sportsmen will be allowed to take three male birds a day, the same as in 1956.

Shooting will start at noon, central standard time, each day in all counties.

Sports Trail

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP)—This probably is what you might call a negative story, as nothing happened. The guys weren't fired.

When a baseball manager gets the gate, hinges and all, it is worth lengthy comment. But Freddy Hutchinson and Jack Tighe haven't been ousted, and the only reason for mentioning them is that they both have received the backing of their respective bosses.

Gusie Busch, the fan who owns the St. Louis Cardinals, says he is perfectly satisfied with the job Hutch has done, and Johnny McHale who runs the front office for the squad of businessmen owning the Detroit Tigers, says nobody of authority is criticizing the work of Tighe.

There would be a hard man to please indeed if he found fault with Hutchinson, who has been keeping the team right up there in the dizzy race for the National League pennant.

Virtually nobody picked the Cards to finish on top this year. They were considered a good, sturdy dark horse, but you'd want pretty good odds on them before putting down a small bet.

The pitching wasn't expected to hold up, for one thing. Then they had a fireman up from Rochester, Eddie Kasko, at third base, and a sophomore, Don Blasingame, at second base. Al Dark at shortstop couldn't be expected to teach them both at the same time.

Nobody knew then that Von McDaniel, brother of Lindy, would come out of an Oklahoma high school and pitch with the poise of a veteran, or that Kasko would be an extremely precocious young man at third base.

Personally we believe Hutchinson has been doing a fine job. He was Frank Lane's choice when Lane took over as general manager. Lane was given the privilege of naming his own man, and Hutch was No. 1 on his list. He'd had no reason to believe he made a mistake.

Tighe is in a slightly different situation. Whereas the Cardinals have done better than most observers expected, the Tigers haven't quite lived up to their advance billing.

We picked them to finish second, which probably was doing Tighe no favor. They finished fifth, 15 games out, last season, but they were only six games out of second place and seemed to be the only one of the contenders to make a determined effort to improve themselves over the winter.

But something went wrong. The Tigers were the best hitting team in the league last year, with an average of .279. They hit 150 home runs, a total far under that of the Yankees but still quite respectable.

They had Harvey Kuenn hitting .332 and Charley Maxwell .326 and Al Kaline .314. Now they haven't a man in the top of the league. Tighe cannot be blamed for that. He can't hit for his athletes.

Aside from Jim Bunning, brought up from Charleston last year and a pleasant surprise, the pitching has not been what it was expected to be.

Anyway, as mentioned, it's a negative story. The guys haven't been fired.

AAU Cancels Lee Calhoun's Registration Card

HIGH POINT, N. C. (AP)—The Carolinas Amateur Athletic Union cancelled Tuesday the registration card of Lee Calhoun, Olympic hurdles champion from Gary, Ind.

Calhoun, a student at North Carolina College at Durham, was married several days ago on a "show, 'Bride and Groom'" (NBC). He and his bride, the former Gwendolyn Bannister of Pinehurst, received many gifts from sponsors, including a honeymoon in Paris. They are now in Paris.

The Olympic champion was advised by Dan Ferris, AAU executive secretary, that his appearance on the show and acceptance of the gifts would be in violation of AAU rules. Calhoun decided to go on with the show.

Joe P. Glynn of Greensboro, president of the Carolinas AAU, said the Negro hurdler could appeal to the national board of governors.

Calhoun will take a job with Cleveland, Ohio, city recreation department Sept. 3.

YANKEES PITCHER RECEIVES DIVORCE

DADE CITY, Fla. (AP)—Don Larsen, the New York Yankee pitcher who hurled a perfect game in the 1956 World Series, has received his final decree in a divorce action.

Circuit Judge C. Richard Leavengood signed the decree which was filed Saturday and became known Tuesday.

Larsen used his wife, Vivian, on grounds of mental cruelty and desertion. She did not contest the divorce.

Court records show Larsen is to pay $3,750—an amount agreed upon in a separation agreement—plus alimony, support of their 2-year-old daughter which she was awarded and her attorney fees.

Michigan State has 23 different sports on its intramural athletic program.

Dick Mayer Faces High Finance Problems After Winning 'World' Tourney

CHICAGO (AP)—High finance was proving a headache Tuesday to Dick Mayer, whose $50,000 triumph in the rich "World" golf tourney last weekend brought several reverberations.

Mayer, who also won the U.S. Open this year, huddled with promoter George S. May of Tam O'Shanter and decided to postpone his decision on whether to go on an exhibition tour for May at $1,000 per appearance.

In addition to his $30,000 first prize for winning the "World" Sunday, Mayer can collect as much as $50,000 on the May exhibition tour.

Actually, Mayer gave $5,000 of his "World" prize to another pro, Al Bessink, because of a pre-tourney share system arrangement.

This brought out disclosure that Bessink, who reportedly had a similar agreement with three or four other "World" contenders, collected $10,000 at Tam O'Shanter in 1954 when Bob Toski won the big first prize.

May said that Mayer has "quite an income tax problem," and asked time to confer with his lawyer before deciding whether to go on the exhibition tour.

Mayer admitted that Bessink, now in St. Paul for the St. Paul Open, had a $5,000 interest in his one-stroke "World" victory. If Bessink won the $50,000, Mayer would have received a $5,000 share, too.

"There's nothing new about this. It has been going on for years. It's a matter between players and no outsiders are concerned. There are no gambling aspects of any kind involved. Actually, it's similar to a man going out and taking out an insurance policy against losses."

"Usually, seven or eight players get together and agree to pay $1,000 each to the others, provided they win a big tournament. In other words, instead of depending entirely upon yourself, you have six or seven others going for you. It doesn't affect your efforts to win in any way."

Orioles Beat Senators, 5 - 3

Southern Illinois Fox Hunt Begins

GOREVILLE, Ill. (AP)—The 42nd annual southern Illinois fox hunt, attended by an estimated 40,000 persons and 600 dogs, started at Fernie Cliffe State Park near Marion Tuesday.

Six or seven foxes have been released for the hunt, sponsored by the Southern Illinois Fox Hunters Association. It will last through Thursday.

Brad Durham, a member, said some 40,000 to 50,000 persons will witness the three-day hunt. Persons have registered from Wisconsin, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Oklahoma, Missouri and Illinois.

FREE-FOR-ALL IN WOMEN'S FOOTBALL GAME

OMAHA (AP)—A women's city tournament football game ended in a free-for-all Monday night. Police were called after spectators joined in the fray and a player was hit on the head with a bat.

Herbert Thompson, manager of the Travelers, and Manager Eugene Agee Jr. of the Commercial team were booked on disturbing the peace charges, as were players Sarah Howard and Barbara Kelly.

Miss Howard suffered a head bruise when she was hit with a bat, and Miss Kelly got a head cut when she was knocked down.

Football Commissioner Floyd Wilson said the trouble started when one of the players tried to steal second base and claimed she was kicked.

NEW YORK (AP)—Federal Judge Frederick Van Pelt Bryan referred to Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan Tuesday a motion by boxing promoters James D. Norris Jr., Arthur M. Wirtz and the International Boxing Clubs of New York and Illinois to set aside the recent ruling by Judge Ryan that the ring group was a monopoly.

Judge Ryan is sitting in federal court in Seattle, Wash., until Aug. 30. It has not been determined if Judge Ryan will hear the motion there or will wait until he returns here.

Braves Roll To Eighth Straight Victory, 12 - 4

CINCINNATI (AP)—Milwaukee's Braves rolled to their eighth straight victory and a 6½-game lead in the National League race with a 12-4 victory over fourth place Cincinnati Tuesday night. Righthander Lew Burdette drove in four runs with two homers — his first in the majors.

It was the 12th victory in 14 games with the Redlegs for the Braves, who strengthened their hold on first place all the way down the line as each of the other contenders lost.

Burdette, winning his 11th with an eight-inning, bailed the Braves out of a 4-all tie in the sixth with a three-run homer after cutting Cincinnati's 2-0 lead with his first home run in the third.

The stage had been set for Burdette's three-run poke when Andy Parko doubled and Wes Covington was passed intentionally.

And after the pitcher's second homer, Red Schoendienst also smacked a four-base blow.

To his and an error had given the Reds a 2-0 jump in the second inning.

But Burdette's first homer cut that

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO, (U) — Steer prices again moved to the highest level since last November Tuesday but hog prices continued to fall.

Steers and heifers were mostly steady and several loads of prime 1,225 to 1,250-pound steers sold at $28.00 to $29.50, equaling last week's top. Cows and bulls were steady to 25 cents up. Vealers, stockers and feeders were steady. Salable receipts were light at 5,500 head, 1,000 less than expected.

Butchers were generally 25 cents lower and closed slow and 25 to 50 cents off on a few lots were 25 cents lower and in some instances were off more.

Several lots of No. 1 and 2 200 to 225-pound butchers sold at $21.75 to $22.00, the practical top, although 20 head brought $22.25. Larger lots of mixed grade 330 to 375-pound steers sold at $19.00 to $20.25. Salable receipts were 8,500 head, somewhat heavier than expected.

Spring lambs were mostly steady but in spots were 50 cents off. Slaughter ewes and yearlings were steady. Choice and prime spring lambs were scarce, but a few old head topped at $24.50, the same as Monday. Salable receipts were 2,000 head.

WHEAT FUTURES ABSORB HEDGING THEN RALLY

By WILLARD ROBERTSON
CHICAGO, (U) — Wheat futures absorbed some profit taking and hedging Tuesday on the Board of Trade then moved upward again, although advances were not as sharp as in the previous session. Soybeans, which led the previous advance, dropped as much as two cents in early dealings and then rallied somewhat with wheat. Corn was weak and oats followed suit with minor losses.

New style wheat closed 1/4 higher, corn 1/4 to 1 cent lower, oats unchanged to 1/4 off, rye unchanged to 3/4 off, soybeans unchanged to 1/4 off, and lard 3 to 4 cents a hundred pounds higher.

There were some reports of flour business, and when hedge selling turned out to be limited wheat prices moved upward. Chicago arrivals were small at eight cars, although spring wheat receipts in the Northwest again were heavy. Minneapolis and Duluth received 1,431 cars, compared with 680 a year ago.

The government weekly crop summary said mostly dry weather in northern states aided harvesting of small grains, including spring wheat. In South Dakota the outlook is highly favorable, with large yields per acre, the report said. In Montana, harvesting made rapid progress, with the winter wheat 60 per cent harvested and spring wheat 30 per cent completed.

Japan was reported to have bought 800,000 bushels of U.S. soybeans.

Traders, particularly in beans, were interested in Washington news that President Eisenhower is seeking more foreign aid money. Washington sources said the additional bill was granted under Public Law 480 is not enough, and the sum should be 2 1/2 billion dollars. Under this measure, surplus farm commodities are shipped abroad in exchange for foreign money.

Utilities and top-grade corporates closed firm but rails and industrials lost ground. Rails touched a new low for the year in the Associated Press index of 60 representative bonds, a convenient ruler of market movements. Convertibles generally were lower.

Corporate trading amounted to $3,490,000 par value on the Big Board compared with $3,400,000 Monday.

New York Stock Market

By Walter Rusewitz

NEW YORK (U) — The stock market just about stood still Tuesday. It closed with about an even mixture of small gains and losses after edging slightly higher much of the day.

Volume was only 1,580,000 shares, making it one of the slowest sessions of the past five months. This compared with Tuesday's 1,650,000 shares and Friday's 1,570,000 shares.

Inconclusive as it was, the market's performance brought mild sighs of relief to some in Wall Street. In breaking even, it interrupted a fairly steady string of declines of the past month.

Brokers who follow the technical behavior of stocks said the market had been checked twice, last Wednesday and again Tuesday, when the averages approached the lows of June 24.

The market was showing little tendency to rally, they said, but at least it was holding within a relative narrow range.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks edged up 10 cents to $179.50. The industrial component gained 10 cents, while both the rails and utilities were unchanged.

Motors, steels and oils were generally up fractions, while air crafts gave up some ground. Most other divisions were steady or mixed.

The day's news included more signs of tighter money and more cutting down in defense spending in Washington.

The American Stock Exchange was mixed with volume of 610,000 shares compared with Monday's 640,000 shares.

Thousands Attend Fair's Springfield Day

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (U) — More

livestock joined the ranks of royalty Tuesday, scoring fresh awards in Illinois State Fair judging.

The exposition devoted its fifth day of a 10-day run to activities honoring Springfield. Thousands of local residents turned out for events ranging from flower shows to a high school band concert.

Grand championships were bestowed on "Eileenmire 1428", an Aberdeen Angus bull owned by J. Garrett Tolan Farms of Pleasant Plains; "Jester Standard Brave Drammer" owned by Irvin W. Myers of Lake View Farms, Flora in open Jersey bull judging; and "Royal Jester Advance" owned by J. C. Piper and Sons of Sumner, in Jersey bull Land of Lincoln and Illinois classes.

In the junior department, Earl Smith, 16-year-old high school senior from Clinton, showed grand champion Jersey female and Bill Roffey, 13, of Elmwood, the runnerup.

Grand champion Holstein in the junior show was exhibited by Audrey Mathews, 18, of Huntley, while Nannette Smith, 15, of Oswego, showed the next best. Grand champion female Guernsey honors went to "Fore Julie", a 27-year-old exhibited by Kathleen Dennis, 12, of Ambury.

A champion title was conferred on a milking Shorthorn exhibited in the junior department by Mary Ann Brick, 12, of Elkhart. The title for junior show dual purpose red polled cattle went to "Fairdale Nan", shown by Ron Fritz, 15, of Herscher.

Wednesday's program will include more judging of Shorthorn, polled Hereford, milking Shorthorn and Guernsey cattle. It also calls for mule races, a goat milking contest, judging of draft teams in harness and a Western show.

Junior department champion and Land of Lincoln champion females were shown in other sheep breeds by Kathy Gustafson, 15, of Lake Zurich, Southdown, Bob Bane, 12, of Leroy, Heviot, Norman Malone, 17, of Aleo, Corriedale, Barry Mann, 18, of Morris, Suffolk, Larry Windt, 18, of Yates City, Shropshire, Julia Allen, 13, of Lake Zurich, Hampshire, and Larry Durham, 12, of Walnut, Oxford.

Opal Hayes of Franklin was dubbed "Cook of Today" after piling up 45 blue ribbons, 34 red and 15 white in baking and canning competitions.

Charge U.S. Plot To Overthrow Syrian Regime

tache in Rome. They were identified as the leaders of the conspiracy. Shihabiyeh was sentenced in absentia last February to life imprisonment on charges of leading a subversive group.

In Rome, Hussein denied being involved in any conspiracy and said he had never heard of Stone.

Soviet Abets Syria

After the Syrian statement had been aired, the Soviet ambassador to Syria, Serguei Nemtchinov, met with Premier Sabri Assali.

He reportedly affirmed Russia's "preparedness to stand by Syria's side in the face of all foreign imperialistic intrigues."

The officers, it said, were told to continue their contacts with the American and later met Hussein and Shihabiyeh at the homes of U. S. Embassy staff members.

Hussein was quoted as telling the officers of U. S. willingness to give the multimillion-dollar aid if Kuwait was overthrown and a peace with Israel was concluded.

Hussein was also quoted as saying the United States had agreed that after the coup, Syria would attack and occupy Lebanon, and then consider similar moves against Jordan and Iraq.

Bill Raising Postal Rates Passes House

The House earlier beat down an attempt to knock out the proposed hike in letter charges.

A 106-58 vote defeated an amendment by Rep. Holtfield (D-Calif.) that would have knocked from the bill all increases on first-class letters and postcards.

Rep. Pfost (D-Idaho) told the House that revenue from first-class mail shouldn't have to pay for "the so-called trash mail that clutters up everybody's mail box."

The increase in the letter rate is the principal money-raising feature of the measure.

Rep. Cederberg (R-Mich.) countered by saying, "Sending a letter for four cents anywhere in the United States is still the best bargain there is available."

The Post Office Department has estimated its costs exceed revenues by about 651 million dollars a year. It has said the rate bill would add 32 1/2 million dollars to revenue by 1960.

There has been speculation the Senate might tie the rate proposal to another measure which would raise the pay of postal workers. The House already has passed separate legislation to boost the pay of postal and other government workers. Eisenhower has opposed this as potentially inflationary.

Proposed raises for other classes of mail would be:

Second class 15 per cent increases in each of the next four years.

Third class, a raise from 2 to 3 cents for the first two ounces per piece and a two-phase boost from 1 1/2 cents to 2 1/2 cents on the bulk minimum rate by July 1, 1959.

Charges on controlled circulation mailings would be increased from 10 to 12 cents a pound.

Senate Passes Slashed Foreign Aid Measure

WASHINGTON (U) — The Senate

Tuesday night passed a sharply trimmed bill authorizing a $3,367,083,000 foreign aid program. It acted while administration forces worked feverishly to head off even deeper cuts in appropriations to finance the program.

The measure now goes to the House for final congressional approval. As an authorization measure, it merely sets ceilings on the program, but carries no funds. They are to be voted later.

Senate passage of the compromise authorization bill came after Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) voiced strong opposition on grounds it did not provide enough money for economic development loans.

Fulbright told the Senate that President Eisenhower "failed miserably" to push for support in the House of his original $3,864,410,000 request and apparently "lost interest" in it.

The Senate acted by voice vote in the midst of obvious presidential alarm that the foreign aid program may be cut even deeper in the House Appropriations Committee this week. The committee is reading a bill to provide actual funds for aid activities.

NAVAL CONFUSION

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (U) — The destroyer McGinty had a little trouble finding her way home the other day.

The McGinty steamed into Pearl Harbor and asked for berthing instructions. "Tie up alongside the Whitehurst," was the answer.

After a tour of the harbor, the McGinty radioed in bewilderment: "There's no Whitehurst here. Only a ship called the Haynes."

"Impossible," came the reply. "There's no such ship in the United States Navy."

All concerned later that the Whitehurst had been loaned to a Hollywood crew for a movie. The original name had been painted out, and "Haynes" substituted.

DORIA FACES POSSIBLE CRIMINAL PROSECUTION

As he prepared to leave the committee room Tuesday, Doria asked the committee counsel: "Incidentally, Mr. Kennedy, what may I do about my witness and travel expenses?"

Kennedy, grinning, replied: "Take it out of the $80,000." That was the sum, it has been shown, that Doria was promised as a condition for getting out of the union.

Wants Expenses

But Doria was serious about collecting his expenses, and McClellan told him: "See the clerk."

In late stages of the Doria hearing, the investigators brought out that he received $25,000 from a real estate man who profited on the sale of a union building in Milwaukee.

They also developed that Doria kept thousands of dollars of union cash in an iron box, subject to no accounting to members.

But Doria denied the $25,000 had anything to do with the real estate deal. He said it was sent to him for investment.

Denials

He also swore he never dipped into the union money in the box for his own benefit.

Doria made his denials to the Senate committee set up to inquire into alleged abuses in the labor-management field.

The committee showed much interest in what happened to the proceeds of the sale of the union's headquarters building in Milwaukee in 1954. The union moved to Los Angeles that year.

Doria said the building had been listed with all Milwaukee real estate firms for a year, but no worthwhile offer had come in and the union sold it for $80,000 to the Badger Realty Co. of Milwaukee.

Kalos Was Partner

Doria said he was a partner in the Badger firm with Spiros Kalos and his wife Victoria Kallos.

He testified that Badger sold the building six weeks later for $115,000, but it was not brought out in the committee hearing whether Doria as a partner was entitled to share in the profit. The building was sold again in August for $125,000.

Kept Money In Box

At the start of Tuesday's testimony, the senators were intrigued with Doria's account of

STAMPEDE AT BLUE SPRINGS

BY GENE OLSON

XXV

THE SIGHT OF Dan Clement getting tossed like a sack of oats was something you wanted to see, deep down in you, but you never expected to. Now here it was, right in front of my eyes. I wished everybody in Blue Springs who'd stepped aside for Dan could see it, too.

But Dan wasn't done. He couldn't understand what had happened to him but in that dumb way of his, he was making new plans. He got up slow, shaking his head, blood dripping from his nose. Hay and pieces of paper hung onto his shirt. His hat was gone. He stood there unsteady and stared at Blanchard. He threw a look at me, to warn me not to help Blanchard.

Dan stepped closer and lifted his arms. I saw what he planned. He wouldn't rush Blanchard again. He's got in close and grab and once he got those arms around Blanchard...

Dan made his grab, lunging like a hungry bear. Blanchard stepped back fast on his feet. Dan almost fell on his face. Dan got his footing, then grabbed again, trying to curl those hairy muscles around Blanchard's middle. But this time Blanchard didn't step back. He took Dan's arm with both hands. He threw his hip into Dan's leg and heaved. I saw Blanchard's face break into a great straining smile when Dan's feet left the floor. He laughed wild and loud when Dan pitched over his shoulder and hit the floor on his side with a loud thump of boards and a puffing cloud of dust and an explosion that was Dan's wind, knocked clean out of him.

Dan just lay still. Blanchard flicked a look at me. He was still smiling so I smiled back. Dan got up and stood with his legs spread apart, weaving until he almost fell. He wiped at the blood on his face, never taking his eyes off Blanchard, breathing like he couldn't get enough. He shook his head and grunted and took a step toward Blanchard. But he changed his mind right then. He turned. Dan did. Dan stomped to the left ladder and let himself down it. Me and Blanchard watched his bloody head drop out of the loft.

Blanchard looked at the strips and chunks of newspaper and the two-by-fours scattered in the loft. "Sorry, Pike," he said. "Never mind about that. I can build her up again. It was worth it, just to see it."

BLANCHARD looked around. He walked to the north wall and picked up the rifle he'd been carrying when he came. "Now look, Pike. This thing is narrowing down. You got to feel free to step out if you want to. You already helped me more than I had any right to expect."

I felt sick all of a sudden. And mad. I said, "You want to get rid of me, you just say so, marshal."

"Cut that out." Blanchard's words slapped me down. Now he was mad, too. I tried to meet his eyes but I couldn't. He said, "People in this world got other things to do than give you trouble. You're no kid. Stop acting like one. If I wanted to get rid of you, you'd know it."

He might just as well have spanked me. I just sat there, rubbing the barrel of the Sharps, thinking maybe I ought to rub my rump instead. I wanted him to understand how it was with me, how hard it was to get used to having a friend.

Blanchard went down the loft ladder. I took the Sharps rifle and looked at it for awhile, then put it down on the blanket, away from the hay and dirt. I had to come back to what was real, then. The deadline. Blanchard thought they'd turn Pete loose by tomorrow night. If they did, it was fine for him, for Pete and everybody, except me. If they didn't, I thought I'd better say it. "You got to get used to it, folks."

Blanchard snorted. He frowned at me. "Get that out of your head. You're like anybody else."

I shook my head. Blanchard said, "I'll get out of here, now that I've done about all the damage I can. You know if Lillian keeps a gun?"

"She wouldn't use a gun, Harney."

BLANCHARD stared at me for a few seconds. "I'm betting she would. I'll be on the hotel porch. It's just waiting now, tonight and tomorrow. They'll bring him in like we want. Or they won't."

I nodded. It sounded simple, the way he said it. Maybe it was. I said, "What do you want me to do?"

Blanchard pulled on his right ear and stared at me hard. "Now look, Pike. This thing is narrowing down. You got to feel free to step out if you want to. You already helped me more than I had any right to expect."

Assembly Of Women Ministers Opens At MacMurray Tuesday

The 38th annual assembly of the American Association of Women Ministers began Tuesday at MacMurray college. The meeting opened with registration in the afternoon, followed in the evening by an address from the association's president, Rev. Ruth East, of Binger, Okla., who used the topic, "On The Plateau Of Life."

Women ministers from all parts of the United States are assembled here for the three day convention which has as its theme, "How Beautiful upon the Mountains."—Isaiah 52:7.

The convention theme is "How Beautiful upon the mountains."—Isaiah 52:7.

Composed of 300 women ministers of the gospel of many denominations, the annual gathering is expected to bring at least 50 to this city. Several gospel teams of wives and husbands will be represented.

Rev. Ruth Nicklin of White Hall, pastor of the First Christian church there, is hostess pastor for the convention. Rev. Nettie Senger of Michigan is assistant convention hostess.

The public is cordially invited to attend all convention sessions in the chapel at MacMurray College.

Founder Of Assembly Attends

A distinguished minister in attendance is Rev. M. Madeline Southard of Topeka, Kansas, through whose efforts the women's association was founded in 1919. Rev. Southard, a minister of the Methodist church, will conduct vespers services at the national assembly.

The American Association of Women Ministers is inter-denominational and inter-racial. Rev. East, the president, is pastor of the Congregational Christian church at Binger, Okla.

"14,000 Vacant Pulpits"

"There are 14,000 vacant pulpits in America," Rev. East said Tuesday as she prepared to conduct the annual convention. Women can fill many of these vacancies, not as competitors with men, but because there is need for their services."

In discussing her work and the service of other women ministers, Rev. East declared that intelligence and ability should be considered among the foremost requisites.

Invitations have already been received by the association to hold its 1959 assembly in Denver, Colo., and a city in Montana. Last year the assembly was held at West Covina, Calif.

Election of new officers is scheduled to take place Thursday. The convention program follows:

Keeping white crib sheets white is simpler during sunny months. Dip sheets into rich soap or detergent suds. Without rinsing, hang them in the sun to dry. Follow this with a laundering when bleaching such items, give them at least three hot rinses to flush away all bleach.

Five Judges To Serve In Election Precincts; Voting Hours Changed

Two big changes in election machinery will be effective the next time Morgan county voters and all those in Illinois go to the polls, County Clerk George T. Douglas said Tuesday.

Five judges instead of three judges and three clerks will be in charge of voting activities in all precincts at the general election next Nov. 5.

Polling places in all 49 Morgan county precincts and in all other counties of the state will open at 6 a.m. and close at 6 p.m., instead of closing at 5 p.m., as in past years.

These changes were written into law at the last session of the Illinois General Assembly, and become effective at the November election.

The new arrangement of five judges, eliminating the old setup of three judges and three clerks, is of special interest since it hinges on political party strength in the various precincts.

Appointment of election judges will be made by chairmen of the two central committees in September. The political party casting the most votes in the last general election will be entitled to three judges next November; the other party two judges.

Election hours have been from 6 a.m. to 5 p.m. since the beginning of the election machinery under the modern election laws. The change now approaching will favor the voters, who will have an extra hour to get to the polling places.

Buckingham Will Name 4 Relatives

Three nephews and a niece of the late Clara M. Buckingham, named beneficiaries under terms of her will, which has been filed for probate at the office of County Clerk George T. Douglas.

Mrs. Buckingham, who for many years was a collector of antiques, said in the will she was leaving a list of articles of personal property which she would like to have her executor give to the persons designated on the list. She also suggested that some of her antiques be given to her nephews, Delmar M. McCormick, Paul McCormick and Richard McCormick, leaving the selection of the articles to the executor.

She bequeathed the sum of $2,000 each to her three nephews named above. All the rest of the estate was bequeathed to her niece, Clara McCormick Christie, who was appointed executor.

Mrs. Buckingham executed her will June 11, 1956, witnessed by Martha E. Carroll, D. Elaine Miller and Edward J. Flynn.

Unconscious Through Night After Accident

JERSEYVILLE—James Gray, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gray, and John W. Oze, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis M. Oze, all of Alton, suffered severe injuries when the car they were operating at a high rate of speed on Route 109, seven miles southwest of Jerseyville left the pavement and collided with a series of objects including a service pole at the side of the highway.

According to police reports, the car the two boys were driving had been reported to state police and other authorities, as having been stolen from a parking place in Alton.

The car driven by the boys was demolished and classified here as a total wreck or loss. The Jacoby ambulance was called to the site of the accident and the boys both in an unconscious condition were brought to the Jersey Community hospital. They remained in this state through the night but showed indication Sunday morning of regaining consciousness.

State police officer Wilson Schultz of Jerseyville was on duty in the local area at the time and went to the accident site to handle the situation.

Burial Rites For Wesley F. Staats Held In Kansas

PATTERSON — Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Goodall arrived home from Kansas Saturday night where they had been called by the serious illness of her brother, Wesley Forrest Staats.

Wesley Forrest Staats, of Sylvia, Kan., died Thursday night, Aug. 1, in the Stafford hospital at Stafford, Kan., at the age of 78. He was born Feb. 1, 1879, near White Hall, the son of Abram and Laura Jane Bradshaw.

He was married to Miss Maude Goodall, of near Wrights, on Oct. 17, 1901. She survives with the following other relatives: daughters, Mrs. Mildred Stimts, of Pratt, Kan.; Mrs. Mabel Schultz, of Sylvia, Kan.; Mrs. Ethel Jane Krey, of Wichita, Kan.; sons, Roy, of Abbeville, Kan.; Elmer, of Washington, D. C.; Leo, Walter, and Wesley, of Sylvia, Kan. One son, Leslie, preceded him in death.

Also surviving are four brothers, Virgil, Floyd, Wilbur, and Hershel, of Coats, Kan.; six sisters, Mrs. Alma Meister, of White Hall; Mrs. Ethel Burger, of Canon City, Colo.; Mrs. Cecil Stephenson, of Amarillo, Texas; Mrs. Mary Goodall, of Patterson, Ill.; Mrs. Freda Macks, of East Alton, Ill.; and Mrs. Clea Siler, of Wichita, Kan.; 22 grandchildren, and 12 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at 3 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 4, in the Sylvia Methodist church with the Rev. Arlyn E. Conrad of Coats, Kan., and the Rev. Conrad J. Modshieder, of Conway Springs, officiating.

Burial was held in the Sylvia, Kan., cemetery.

The deceased was a member of the Methodist Church in Sylvia. He had been engaged in farming near Sylvia for the past 30 years.

His widow, Mrs. Maude Staats, accompanied the Goodalls home for a visit with Illinois relatives.

Lillian Wood Dies Monday In Local Hospital

Mrs. Lillian B. Wood of McHenry, Ill., passed away at a local hospital at 10:55 p.m. Monday. She was born in Detroit, Mich., the daughter of Henry and Margaret Nezzle Borch, Nov. 15, 1889.

One son survives, Harry C. Wood of Granite City, Ill., one sister, Mrs. Rosebud Teabault of New Orleans and three grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Williamson Funeral Home with graveside services at Jacksonville East cemetery to be conducted at 2 p.m. Thursday by the Rev. George D. Clark.
